POPULATION OF NEW JERSEY BY COUNTIES AND MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, gives the aggregate population of New Jersey by counties and minor civil divisions, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900.

New Jersey was one of the original thirteen states. Table 1 shows the population of New Jersey at each census from 1790 to 1900, inclusive, together with the increase by number and per cent during each decade.

TABLE 1.—POPULATION OF NEW JERSEY: 1790 TO 1900.

CENSUS YEARS.	Population.	INCREASE.
		Number.	Per cent.
1900 .....	1,883,669	438,736	30.4
1890 .....	1,444,933	313,817	27.7
1880 .....	1,131,116	225,020	24.8
1870 .....	906,096	234,061	34.8
1860 .....	672,035	182,480	37.3
1850 .....	489,555	116,249	31.1
1840 .....	373,306	52,483	16.4
1830 .....	320,823	43,397	15.6
1820 .....	277,426	31,864	13.0
1810 .....	245,562	34,413	16.3
1800 .....	211,149	27,010	14.7
1790 .....	184,139

The population of the state in 1900 is 1,883,669 as compared with a population in 1890 of 1,444,933, representing an increase during the decade of 438,736, or 30.4 per cent. This is a little higher rate of increase than that for the decade from 1880 to 1890, when it was 27.7 per cent, and a still greater rate of increase than that for the decade 1870 to 1880, when it was 24.8 per cent. The numerical increase for the last decade is also more than that for the decade from 1880 to 1890, and in fact more than that for any preceding ten-year period. It is observed that the increase of the state in population was relatively slow during the first half-century of its history, from 1790 to 1840, during that period its population was but little more than doubled, while in the subsequent sixty years its population has become more than five times as large as it was in 1840.

The population of New Jersey in 1900 is more than ten times as large as that given for 1790, the first year in which its population is given in the census report.

The total land surface of New Jersey is, approximately, 7,525 square miles, the average number of persons per square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 192.0; 1900, 250.2.

Table 2 shows the population of New Jersey by counties at each census from 1790 to 1900, inclusive, while the table which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase (or decrease) by number and per cent during the years from 1890 to 1900.

<sup>1</sup> Decrease.

The only territorial change which has been made in the counties of New Jersey since 1890 is the annexation of part of Burlington to Ocean.

Of the 21 counties in the state all but 2 have increased in population during the decade, the counties showing the largest percentages of increase being Bergen, 66.1 per cent; Atlantic, 60.9 per cent; Passaic, 47.7 per cent; Hudson, 40.3 per cent; and Essex, 40.2 per cent.

The 2 counties showing a decrease in population are Burlington and Hunterdon.

Table 4 shows the population of New Jersey by minor civil divisions, so far as it was separately returned at the censuses of 1890 and 1900.

<sup>1</sup> Decrease.

Of the foregoing 10 principal cities of New Jersey, Elizabeth, Newark, and Trenton are the oldest in the census records, having been first enumerated in 1820. Twenty years later, in 1840, Camden, Jersey City, and Paterson first appeared as separately enumerated. Atlantic City had only 687 inhabitants in 1860, and the first census returns were made for Passaic in 1880, when it had a population of 6,532. All these cities have increased materially in population during the last decade, and Atlantic City and Passaic have more than doubled their population. Bayonne, which was first enumerated in 1870, with 3,834 inhabitants, has, during the last ten years, increased in population from 19,033 to 32,722, or 71.9 per cent.
